Life goes on – thanks to having the right insurance.

Work incapacity can strike anyone. The reasons can include an illness or accident, as well as maternity. In many cases this means a reduction in salary while your fixed expenses, such as rent, mortgage and leasing payments, children in school, taxes, etc. remain the same.

If you as an employee get sick, your employer is obliged by law to continue paying your salary for a certain period. This obligation depends on the length of the current employment relationship. Benefits from a state disability insurance plan will fall due at the earliest one year after occupational disability begins. And it generally takes another year (2 years) until you start to receive support from the employee benefits insurance (pension fund).

Individual daily indemnity insurance will compensate any such gap that may occur. It provides a solution that specifically addresses the needs of the employee.

A secure solution.

Individual daily indemnity insurance will supplement your employer's group daily indemnity insurance up to your full salary. This means you can rest assured.

Different waiting periods

The waiting period refers to the time from when work incapacity set in up to the first daily indemnity payment. You can choose a waiting period of 3, 14, 30, 60, 90, 180 or 360 days. The longer the waiting period, the lower the premium.

Daily indemnity amount

The insurance covers a fixed amount of at least CHF 10. The maximum daily indemnity amount is the same as the AHV salary that is subject to contributions.

Entitlement to daily indemnity payments

- In the event of proven loss of earnings
- · Benefits start already at 25 % work incapacity

We calculate the insured daily indemnity amount based on the level of work incapacity.

The employer's obligation to continue salary payments based on the "Bern scale"

The obligation to continue salary payments under the Swiss Code of Obligations (SCO Art. 324a) is based on the number of service years or the provisions of the employment contract. As the employee, you will receive your full salary during this time. When the statutory obligation to pay ends, you are not entitled to compensatory salary payments until the disability pension (IV) and the disability pension from employee benefits insurance (BVG disability pension) start, unless a daily indemnity insurance plan is in effect.

| Duration of the employment relationship   | Employer's obligation to continue salary payments |
|---|---|
| In the 1 st service year       | 3 weeks   |
| 2 nd year                      | 1 month   |
| 3 rd and 4 th year  | 2 months  |
| 5 th to 9 th year   | 3 months  |
| 10 th to 14 th year | 4 months  |
| 15 th to 19 th year | 5 months  |
| 20 th to 25 th year | 6 months  |

Insure the gap.

Case 1:

If the employer has met its statutory obligation to continue salary payments you are not entitled to compensation for lost earnings until the disability pension (IVG) and the disability pension from employee benefits insurance (BVG) start, unless the employer has group daily indemnity insurance.

Case 2

If your employer has group daily indemnity insurance of at least  $80\,\%$  that extends beyond the statutory obligation to continue salary payments, the gap in cover can be closed up to the full AHV salary by means of individual daily indemnity insurance in accordance with the VVG.
